

CHAT in Dublin 2005

Provisional timetable

FRIDAY November 18th

11am – 1.00pm	Registration
2pm	Welcome
2.00 – 2.30pm	Caitlin DeSilvey (Geography, Open University): Ghost town polarities
2.30 – 3pm	James Dixon (Pre-Construct Archaeology): Metropolis now: colonial encounters in post-colonial London
3pm – 3.30pm	Christine Finn (Archaeology, University of Bradford): Eternal and Ethereal: an archaeologist's (online) diary of Rome.
Coffee break
4 – 4.30pm	Colin Breen (Maritime Studies, University of Ulster): Red on Green: re-politicising an archaeology of the island of Ireland's recent past
4.30 – 5pm	Laura McAtackney (Archaeology, Bristol): Subversion and the institutions of inequality: Long Kesh/Maze Prison site, Northern Ireland
5 – 5.30pm	Layla Renshaw (Kingston University / UCL): Republican mass graves from the Spanish Civil War
7pm	Matthew Johnson (Archaeology, Southampton)

SATURDAY November 19th

9.30 – 10am Kirsty Owen (Archaeology, University of Leicester):
Incisive voices: the interpretation of church graffiti after the Reformation

10 – 10.30am Siân Jones (Archaeology, University of Manchester)
“Testimony to the abilities of artists in an early period of improvement in taste and design”: ‘polite’ culture and the appropriation of early medieval sculpture in Scotland

10.30 – 11am Theresa Oakley (Archaeology, University of Southampton):
The shock of the sheela

Coffee break

11.30 – 12noon Mark Gordon (Archaeology UCD):
title to be announced

12 – 12.30pm Mairín Ní Cheallaigh (Archaeology, UCD Dublin):
‘Giants of land’ and murdering hags: ‘high’ and ‘low’ perceptions of castles in 19th-century Ireland

12.30 – 1pm Stephen A. Brighton (Anthropology, University of Maryland):
The Irish diaspora in America: alienation and struggle between Irish immigrants and native born-Americans in New York City, c.1850-1880

Lunch break

2.30 – 3pm Cassie Newland (Archaeology, Bristol):
title to be announced

3 – 3.30pm Julie H. Ernstein (Anthropology, College of William & Mary):
Theorizing suburbia: closing the gap between method and theory in suburban studies

3.30 – 4pm Sarah May (English Heritage):
Railway rubbish

Coffee break

4.30 – 5pm Carolyn L. White (Anthropology, University of Nevada):
Title to be announced

- 5 – 5.30pm Paul Graves-Brown ():
AK47: A new chapter in the social history of the machine gun
- 5.30 – 6pm Sally V. Smith (Archaeology, University of Sheffield):
Contexts of lordship: control and resistance in the late medieval English village

SUNDAY November 20th

- 10-10.30am Audrey J. Horning (Archaeology, University of Leicester):
The ever-present past, the ever-arriving present: exploring the implications of post-colonial approaches in Irish historical archaeology
- 10.30 – 11am James Lyttleton (Archaeology, University College Cork):
Irish colonial archaeology – a post-colonial discourse
- 11 – 11.30am Mark Horton (Archaeology, University of Bristol):
"It is forbidden to wash bicycles in the lily ponds": colonial and postcolonial approaches to heritage in Zanzibar

Coffee break

- 12noon – 1pm Comments by Charles E. Orser and Tadhg O'Keeffe
Discussion

End of Conference