

UCD Access & Lifelong Learning Disability Support: Privacy Statement

About the Disability Support Privacy Statement

University College Dublin (UCD) is committed to ensuring that students with a disability have complete and equitable access to all facets of UCD life as can reasonably be provided. UCD has adopted a policy for students with disabilities studying in UCD which is in accordance with the Disability Act 2005, the Equal Status Acts 2000 (as amended), and the University Act 1997. Students with a disability are encouraged to register for disability support and 'reasonable accommodations' in the UCD Access and Lifelong Learning Centre (UCD ALL) to seek support in areas where their disability could affect their ability to participate fully in all aspects of the course. Such disclosure is encouraged so that UCD ALL can work with the student in ensuring that any reasonable accommodation required is identified and facilitated in consultation with the student.

Any student wishing to receive disability support and reasonable accommodations must attend a Needs Assessment taking into account the nature of the disability, course requirements and individual differences, read this Privacy Statement and sign the 'Consent to Release Information' form so that necessary information may be provided to third parties on a need-to-know basis for the purpose of receiving reasonable accommodations.

This document outlines the practices of UCD ALL in capturing 'sensitive personal data' for the intention of implementing reasonable accommodations. This Privacy Statement applies to all students at UCD, both undergraduate and postgraduate, with permanent or long-term disabilities who request reasonable accommodations. From 25 May 2018, UCD ALL process 'sensitive personal data' in accordance with EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR; 2016/679) and the Data Protection Act 2018.¹ This Privacy Statement & outlines:

The data we collect about you will be used to implement appropriate reasonable accommodations and disability support. When students register for reasonable accommodations with UCD ALL, they are provided with this Privacy Statement which details information on the 'sensitive personal data' collected by UCD and how it will be processed. Students seeking reasonable accommodations must sign a Consent to Release Information form at their Needs Assessment providing their consent to release necessary information to relevant internal and external bodies for the purposes of receiving reasonable accommodations.

UCD will ensure that your data is processed fairly and lawfully in keeping with the principles of data protection. For the purposes outlined in this Privacy Statement, your 'sensitive personal data' will be processed on the basis of informed consent. Should we require your consent for any other specific use of your personal information, we will collect it at the appropriate time, and you can withdraw this at any time.

Note: If you choose not to consent to the collection and processing of your data or choose to restrict the disclosure of your data where it is necessary for the implementation of reasonable accommodations, you may not be able to receive those reasonable accommodations.

Furthermore, students may withdraw their consent to disclose information at any time. Withdrawing consent to disclose information may limit the implementation of reasonable accommodations. To withdraw consent, UCD ALL requires the student to attend a meeting to review the Consent to Release Information form and to advise us in writing that they are withdrawing their consent. To organise a meeting to withdraw consent at any time, please email disability@ucd.ie.

4. How UCD ALL stores and secures 'sensitive personal data'

Data pertaining to students who are not eligible for the ESF will be securely stored as electronic files until programme completion/graduation/withdrawal, after which it will be securely destroyed.

UCD ALL keep an electronic record of supports and equipment provided to students and interaction with students to ensure that a consistent service is provided to all students.

Statistical information: data gathered to monitor and evaluate the service provided through UCD ALL will be anonymous.

³ When UCD stores 'sensitive personal data' on our systems, the data will be stored either on UCD premises or on secure IT platforms within the EEA, which are also subject to European data protection requirements. Once the processing of personal data is complete any third parties with whom data was shared will be required to return the data to UCD ALL, except where they are required to retain it by law.

Note on Non-disclosure of information: Students may, at any time, request restrictions to the processing or sharing of data by UCD ALL by ticking 'No' in any of the boxes on the 'Consent to Release Information' form at their Needs Assessment. However, by ticking 'No', students may not be able to receive those reasonable accommodations that require disclosure of information.

Parents/guardians & Other student: Due to GDPR, information about students with disabilities and support requirements will not be shared or discussed with parents/guardians without written consent from the student. Third parties not specified above: Students remain the controllers of their data and UCD ALL will not share data with any third parties apart from those specified in the Consent to Release Information form for the purpose of implementing reasonable accommodations. Should the student wish to share their data with other third parties, they should request their data from UCD ALL, they will then be provided with their data and may share it with whom they wish.

- Complaints/appeals to UCD.
- Legal situations, e.g. legal disputes/advice/proceedings, or where required by a court of law.

6. Students on Overseas UCD-Accredited Programmes: Singapore/Hong Kong/Sri Lanka

UCD ALL is aware that students with a disability who are enrolled on an overseas UCD-accredited programme in Singapore/Hong Kong/Sri Lanka may wish to avail of disability support during their programme. As these courses are UCD-accredited, the data processing activities necessary to provide these supports must be in accordance with GDPR legislation.

In relation to transfers of personal data to third/international countries outside of the European Economic Area \(EEA\), Singapore/Hong Kong/Sri Lanka do not possess an adequacy decision in line with Article 45 or a standard contractual clause in line with Article 46 of GDPR legislation. This means that the EU do not consider these countries to have appropriate data protection measures in place to make a safe international transfer of personal data. Due to this, UCD ALL are unable to make a direct transfer of personal data (including special category data) to personnel within these campuses for the purposes of providing reasonable accommodations.

To avail of reasonable accommodations on these programmes, students must contact UCD ALL directly to complete a Needs Assessment. To complete the Needs Assessment, students will need to provide UCD ALL with appropriate 'Evidence of Disability' and sign the 'Consent to Release Information Form for Students on Overseas Programmes', both of which will be retained securely as per Section 4 of this Privacy Statement. After the Needs Assessments, students will be provided with their Certificate of Disability Support via email which outlines the reasonable accommodations they require. Programme Managers based in UCD who have access to InfoHub (student record system) will have access to information regarding a student's reasonable accommodations. Students will sign the 'Consent to Release Information Form for Students on Overseas Programmes' acknowledging that they must use this Certificate of Disability Support at their own discretion to request their reasonable accommodations from the appropriate personnel (e.g. lecturers) directly within their overseas programme of study and that UCD ALL and Programme Managers will not transfer data outside of the EEA.

This procedure has been agreed with the UCD Office and Data Protection to ensure that these students can avail of reasonable accommodations, while ensuring that the data processing activities are in accordance with GDPR. The following individual rights will still apply.

7. Individual rights under GDPR

You will have the following rights over the way we process your personal data. If you would like to exercise any of the below rights, please see our contact details below. Further details on these rights are available here.

Right of Access

You have the right to request a copy of the personal data we are processing about you and to exercise that right easily and at reasonable intervals.

Consent

You have the right to withdraw your consent where that is the legal basis of our processing. Under GDPR, UCD have the legal basis to process the above specified data with a student's informed consent in order to fulfil UCD's legal obligation of implementing reasonable accommodations in accordance with the Disability Act 2005, the Equal Status Act 2000 (as amended) and University Act 1997.

Rectification

You have the right to have inaccuracies in personal data that we hold about you rectified.

Erasure

You have the right to have your personal data deleted where we no longer have any justification for retaining it subject to exemptions such as the use of pseudonymised data for scientific research.

Object

You have the right to object to processing your personal data if:

- We have processed your data based on a legitimate interest or for the exercise of the public tasks of the University if you believe the processing to be disproportionate or unfair to you.
- The personal data was processed for the purposes of direct marketing or profiling related to direct marketing. For example, where a data controller is using personal data for the purpose of marketing something directly to the individual, or profiling for direct marketing purposes, the individual can object at any time, and the data controller must stop processing as soon as they receive the objection.
- We have processed the personal data for scientific or historical research purposes or statistical purposes unless the processing is necessary for the performance of a task carried out for reasons of public interest.

Restriction

You have a limited right to restrict the processing of your personal data by a data controller such as UCD. Where processing of data is restricted, it can be stored by the data controller, but most other processing actions, such as deletion, will require permission.

This right applies in four ways. The first two types of restriction of processing apply where an individual has objected to processing of data under Article 21, or where the individual has contested the accuracy of data. In these cases, the restriction applies until the data controller has determined the accuracy of the data, or the outcome of the objection. The third situation in which an individual can request restriction relates to processing that is unlawful. In these cases, if an individual does not want the data controller to delete information, they can request restriction of the personal data instead. The fourth type of restriction of processing applies where data is required for the purpose of a legal claim. In this case, restriction can be requested even where the data controller no longer needs the data.

When restriction of processing is obtained, what obligations does the data controller have? Where an individual has obtained restriction of processing of data, the data controller must inform the individual before lifting the restriction.

Portability

You have the right to have a readily accessible machine-readable copy of data transferred or moved to another data controller where UCD is processing the data based on consent.

8. Reporting data breaches

Under the GDPR, a data breach which is reportable to the Data Protection Commissioner must be reported no later than 72 hours after awareness is made of it. All breaches or suspected breaches should therefore be reported to the UCD Data Protection Officer (contact details below) without delay for assessment.
