

Gus Martin Memorial Postgraduate Scholarship

MA in Anglo-Irish Literature and Drama

School of English, Drama and Film, University College Dublin

The School of English, Drama and Film, UCD is pleased to announce the launch of the Gus Martin Memorial Postgraduate Scholarship in Anglo-Irish Literature and Drama. The scholarship will provide full tuition (international fee) to a graduate of a North American college/university to pursue the UCD MA in Anglo-Irish Literature and Drama, September 2018-August 2019. The scholarship honours the contribution and legacy to Irish literary studies of the late Professor Augustine Martin, Chair of Anglo-Irish Literature and Drama (1979-1995). The scholarship is sponsored by a generous donor.

For application:

- Applicants must have completed a Bachelors programme to high honours level in a North American university (US or Canada), by date of application.
- Applicants must, prior to application for the scholarship, have applied to and been accepted to the MA in Anglo-Irish Literature and Drama.
- The application must include:
  - a personal statement (1-2 pages) indicating suitability for the bursary award;
  - a full Curriculum Vitae;
  - a sample of recent academic writing in English (max 3,000 words).
  - notice of offered place to the MA in Anglo-Irish Literature and Drama, UCD;
  - the nomination of two referees by the applicant. Written references by the nominated referees are to be submitted separately to Professor Margaret Kelleher (email as below) by the closing date for application.

Applications for the scholarship are to be submitted via email to Professor Margaret Kelleher, UCD School of English, Drama, Film and Creative Writing (Margaret.O.Kelleher@ucd.ie) no later than 14 May 2018.
