

Hear from CNN's Michael Holmes!

Watch UCD graduate, CNN's Donie O'Sullivan at the program launch

The CNN Academy and UCD Clinton Institute are inviting application for the Masters in Journalism and International Affairs
 January 2022 Start

A World-First Masters

CNN Academy has teamed up with the UCD Clinton Institute to deliver a world-first, new Masters programme. Enrolling in January 2022 in UCD, this one-year programme combines world leading journalism training with academic expertise in international affairs.

This is the first English-language Masters programme CNN has co-designed in collaboration with a university partner. CNN journalists, editors and producers will participate via live interactive seminars and also provide hands-on audio, video and digital production training at UCD Clinton Institute.

As a graduate of this prestigious programme, carrying the legacy of the CNN name and brand, you will be equipped with valuable skills for working with news media organisations across the globe.

About CNN

CNN Worldwide is the most honored brand in cable news, reaching more individuals on television and online than any other cable news organization in the United States. Globally, CNN International is the most widely distributed news channel.

About University College Dublin

One of Europe's leading research-intensive universities, UCD is ranked within the top 1% of higher education institutions world-wide. As Ireland's most globally engaged university, UCD's strong international visibility, impact and reputation makes us institution of first choice for international students looking to study in Ireland.

Scholarships

UCD Clinton Institute is offering scholarships to students who demonstrate exceptional academic or journalistic ability. The MA in Journalism and International Affairs scholarship valued at €10,000 is payable to students after they commence the Masters programme. The scholarship can be used to cover education-related expenses, including living expenses and/or tuition fees.

Enquire now to learn more about this programme.

Visit the website