

UCD Sutherland School of Law

MSc Criminology & Criminal Justice (One Year Full Time)

Crime and punishment are issues of central importance to society. The UCD Institute of Criminology and Criminal Justice aims to contribute to the development of criminal justice policy and practice and advance criminology as an academic discipline. The Institute brings together leading academics from across UCD and is the first centre of its kind in Ireland. Its members have conducted major research projects on a wide range of topics in the field of criminology and criminal justice, including work on coercive confinement, prison violence and desistance from crime.

On completion of this programme, students will be able to understand and think critically about the intersections between sociology, psychology, law, politics and social policy that come to the fore in the study of criminology and criminal justice.
