Re-Thinking Ressentiment

You are most warmly invited to the launch by Dr Douglas Smith (UCD) on 12 October 2017 of Jeanne Riou/Mary Gallagher (eds), Ressentiment. On the Limits of Criticism and the Limits of its Critics.

Our era seems beset by the peddling of 'post truth' politics, by the derision of critical voices as purveyors of 'fake news' and by the convulsive hold of chauvinistic nationalisms and populist agendas. Against that backdrop, 'Ressentiment' is a notion that deserves renewed attention and analysis. This book's reappraisal focuses on the past/present predicament of critical discourse, pointing up some of the many ways and contexts in which 'dissensus' is limited or disabled either by 'Ressentiment' or by accusations of 'Ressentiment'.
